

Hassan Amiri

I am Dr. Hassan Amiri, a member of the faculty of Iran University of Medical Sciences in Tehran, Iran I am a specialist in emergency medicine and clinical toxicology fellowship and an associate professor in the emergency medicine department. In addition to working in the emergency medicine group, I am also a poison consulting physician at Hazrat Rasool Akram Hospital, which is the main hospital of the university. At present, in addition to being the head of the emergency department, I am also the executive advisor to the university president. I have written about 34 articles on emergency medicine and poisoning.