

Jauch Edward

CV

Dr. Jauch is Chief, System Research, Mission Health System, Asheville, NC, and adjunct Professor, Department of Emergency Medicine, Medical University of South Carolina, and Departments of Emergency Medicine and Neurology, University of North Carolina. Dr. Jauch is well known in the field of stroke and has over 180 publications. From 2013-2018, Dr. Jauch served as Principal Investigator of the Southeast Collaborative Alliance for Stroke Trials Regional Coordinating Center for the NIH StrokeNet network and continues to provide oversight activities for ongoing NIH, Department of Defense, and industry-sponsored neuroscience studies.

Dr. Jauch served as Chair of the American Heart Association Stroke Council and was primary author of 2013 Acute Ischemic Stroke guidelines and 2021 Recommendations for Regional Stroke Destination Plans from the US Prehospital Stroke System of Care Consensus Conference. He focuses on improving access to care through the development of regional, state, national, and global stroke systems of care.